PODCAST PROVIDES HELP FOR TEACHING BLACK HISTORY STUDIES IN HOMESCHOOLS

Yocum African American History Association founders discuss Black History Studies for Homeschoolers in a Homeschool.com Podcast

MEDINA, OH – Jamie Gaddy, Editor-in-Chief of the Homeschool.com website and host of their Podcast, interviewed the founders of the Yocum African American History Association (YAAHA), Sandra K. Yocum and Frances Presley Rice, who discussed ways homeschooling parents can include Black History in their homeschool.

Homeschool.com, a website platform for the homeschooling community that has over 27,472,755 people using their website, which includes 13,736,378 teachers, is listed online as being one of the “20 Best Homeschooling Websites and Learning Resources.”

During the Podcast, Yocum and Rice discussed how YAAHA provides for families an array of well-researched educational materials free of charge that are perfect for use in a homeschooling setting, including lesson plans, PowerPoints, videos, illustrations, and other resources to convey the breadth of Black History.

In response to a question from Gaddy, Yocum and Rice stated that the free lesson plans are downloadable in PDF format and ideal for middle, high school, and college level students. Yocum and Rice said also that homeschooling parents who wish to supplement the lessons plans can purchase their book "Black History 1619-2019: An Illustrated and Documented African-American History" that is available in ebook and printed format on Amazon.com and through all national bookstores. All proceeds from book sales are donated to YAAHA.
